Revised 2/2024

Overview

Korean is a language spoken natively by the 74 million Korean people living in the Korean peninsula, including 26 million North Koreans and 48 million South Koreans. It is spoken as a second language by 5.3 million people in the United States, almost three quarters of a million in Japan, and half a million in the former Soviet Union. Korean is studied in Korea as a foreign language worldwide because of Korea's continuing economic success since the 1970s. Korean ranks as the 17th most spoken language among over 6,000 languages that exist on the globe.

In order to respond to the diverse needs of its students and to equip them with the practical language skills, the Korean and Culture Program offers courses on Korean language, linguistics, culture, literature, and film. Korean language proficiency levels emphasize all the four language modalities.
